About the Conference

Pharmaceutical Analysis plays important role in ensuring quality, safety and efficacy of both active pharmaceutical ingredients and formulations. Spectroscopy, spectrometry and chromatographic techniques are vital in analysis of drug products. These techniques not only speed up the duration of analysis but also provide precise and accurate data. This two days national conference aims to bring together academic's scientists, industrial researchers and scholars on a common platform to discuss about recent advancement in spectral based techniques in quality control and quality assurance of Pharmaceuticals. Every year, there are introduction of new technologies to speed up the analysis. Recent trends is based on hyphenated instruments like LC-MS, LC-NMR which behave like magic bullet by providing more than one analytical data's with ease, cost effectiveness and those instruments are robust with user friendly. Students and faculty will be acquainted with recent advancement in LC-MS, GC-MS, IR- Microscopy and other hyphenated techniques. The handling of those sophisticated instrument and spectral data interpretation require lots of experience and expertization. The resource persons from industry and R & D will share their experiences with the participants. Few of the lectures will be based on hands on practice session of interpretation of Infrared, NMR and mass spectra's. Maintenance, handling and troubleshooting of few sophisticated instruments will be covered.

About the conference

India relishes a very vital position in the global pharmaceutical market. India is the largest provider of generic drugs globally, 40 percent of generic demand in USA and 25 percent of all medicines in UK. The country's pharmaceutical industry is expected to expand at a compound annual growth rate of 22.4 per cent over 2015-20 to reach US$ 55 billion. The 'Pharma Vision 2020' by the Government's Department of Pharmaceuticals aims to make India a major hub for end-to-end drug discovery. The sector has received cumulative FDI worth US$ 15.98 billion between April 2000 and March 2019; and expected to grow to 50 billion by 2025. With so much of potential to grow, still some times the Indian pharmaceutical industries face the wrath of international regulatory agencies such as United States Food and Drug Administration (USFDA) for substandard products and variable qualities of the same product. An important reason highlighted for the variation in the quality is that the products were not well designed by understanding all the product and process variables in a scientific manner. The Indian pharmaceutical industry is mostly based on quality by testing (QbT) approach. The QbT approach is mostly based on correction of defects rather than prevention. This approach has many limitations such as variation in quality of products, recalls of products and blocking of expended capital till the product gets re-approval after correction in quality. The defects or substandard quality products can be prevented by proper planning and designing (quality by design) of a manufacturing process. A pharmaceutical quality by design (QbD) can be defined as systematic and scientific approach of product development, which starts with the predefined objectives and emphasizes on the sound understanding of product and process. Further, from past 10-15 years USFDA and International Council for Harmonization of Technical Requirements of Pharmaceuticals for Humans Use are stressing on the implementation of QbD concept in the approval process for Abbreviated New Drug Applications (ANDA). So, in near future, for the Indian Pharmaceutical Industry to sustain and retain its market share in very much competitive and globalized pharmaceutical market might be a tough job without implementation of QbD concept. The Indian Pharmaceutical Industry must be prepared well in advance to face the challenges, when the regulatory authorities will become QbD. Indian Pharmaceutical Educational institutions are supplying the most of the work force to the industries. So, the concept of QbD must be inculcated in pharmaceutical teachers, graduates and post-graduates. Keeping in view the importance of QbD, the Pharmacy Council of India has included this topic in the syllabus of M. Pharmacy (Pharmaceutics) for discussion. This event will be a one step forward to impart the knowledge of QbD to Pharmacy professionals of Himachal Pradesh and India.

Objective and Outcomes of the event

In near future, to sustain and increase its global market share the Indian Pharmaceutical Industry has to implement the QbD concept in the product development. A thorough knowledge of the QbD concept will become essential requisites for the pharmaceutical professionals. In long term view, the dissemination of knowledge about the QbD concept should start from Pharmaceutical educational institutions, from where the future Pharmacy professional will be evolved. In view of this objective this conference will be able to generate below mentioned outcomes:

1. Improve the knowledge of Pharmacy teaching fraternity, Pharmacy graduates and post-graduate students about QbD.
2. Will help to understand the elements for successful implementation of QbD.
3. Will encourage industry-institute collaboration for QbD.

Who can attend

i) Graduates, Post Graduates in Pharmacy, Scientists, e. Docs, Ph.Ds, M.ScS ii) Regulators. iii) Industry scientists license holders, principal investigators, Analyst, chemists, druggists, lab technicians, regulatory officers, managers.

About Conference

Currently, the arena of an alternative method in animal experimentation has been rising and diversifying, and it has reached out to many other disciplines. As per regulatory guidance the term alternative methods (6 Rs), because of their human relevance, and after extensive validation, several 6Rs methods in the area of pharmacology and toxicology have been adopted in documents. The continuing advancement in the field of In-vitro methods, like cell line studies, enzymatic analysis, hybridoma technique along with HTS method, and high-content imaging methods, simulation technique (in-silico models) and advanced knowledge in the fields of biology system, protein interaction, and gene expression patterns, have opened up new prospects, as especially in the field of pharmacology and toxicology, to investigate pathway alteration in disorder and human-relevant targets. Noteworthy, methods of 6Rs are becoming an essential element in the whole field of biomedical research, from its most fundamental aspects to its daily applications. Today, method of 6Rs represent a multi-disciplinary scientific area comprising animal science, basic biology, test development, pharmacology, toxicology, and regulatory practices, as well as ethics and behavioral sciences. It is the notion that the use of alternative animal testing has been proposed to overcome some of the drawbacks associated with animal experiments and circumvent the unethical procedures. The goal of this conference is to congregate experts from high threshold research areas for Pharmacology & Research to highlight the aspects of the 6Rs concept for the rational use of experimental animal. This conference, aside from providing a way to exchange new hard-ware knowledge and experiences, develop new ideas and bravely overcome challenges in the area of In-vivo testing. A clear understanding of the advantages and limitations of 6Rs approaches and animal models will be transmitted to all target groups.

Conference Impact & Expected Outcome

1. The conference will provide a platform to address the issue of ethical & rational use of experimental animals.
2. Undergraduate, post graduate students, & research scholars will be informed about rational approach used while preparing scientific protocol. Main highlights will be on refinement, reduce, replacement, rehabilitation, reuse & recreational (6Rs) parameters employed in pharmacological studies.
3. Recent advancement in non-animal model technique will be discussed.
4. New technology including simulation technique using advance computer models such as (in-silico) models will be explained to the participants.
5. The conference will provide a platform to discuss the result-oriented benefits not only cost but also ethical aspects.
6. Various In-Vitro techniques such as enzymatic analysis, cell line studies, hybridoma technique along with HTS method will be covered in the conference.
7. Faculty members can implement those ideas in core curriculum and practical design.

About Conference

Various phytoconstituents obtained from nature have wide biological activities in chronic diseases and have wide therapeutic efficacy. The main advantage of using phytoconstituents, as it provides free from adverse effects treatment where none of the medication can do. However, the physiochemical properties such as poor solubility, poor permeation, and non-targeting at the active site will create a barrier which hinders its therapeutic efficacy.

So, various strategies are employed to overcome these barriers and provide uniform receptor targeting at the active site in desired concentration and improved therapeutic efficacy. To fulfill the dream of Sir Paul Ehrlich, concern to self triggering drugs from natural origin and now day by day in the age of augmented technology, we are at the urge to explore these technologies with different strategies.

These strategies will constitute novel drug delivery systems (NDDS), such as nanoparticles, emulsion-based formulations, liposomes, phytosomes, microspheres, and topical based formulations. In this conference, we will highlight some novel applications of NDDS based approaches for enhancing the therapeutic potential of phytoconstituents having wide biological activities.

The goal of this conference will be to congregate of experts from high threshold Research area for teaching of different aspects of advances in Novel Drug delivery systems using phytoconstituent concept. The objective is to provide a forum for the exchange of knowledge, definition of the status quo and design of a common strategy for improved knowledge dissemination to specific audiences belonging to the area of phytoformulation research. A clear understanding of advantages and limitations of use of phytoconstituents in novel formulations will be transmitted to all target groups.
